Popular “Iraqi Most Wanted” Cards Now Available Online

- Now Millions Who Play Computer Solitaire Can Enjoy “Iraqi Most Wanted” Cards -

Aurora, Colo. (May 20, 2003) – Thieves and Kings, an innovative developer of electronic card games, today announced the addition of the popular “Iraqi Most Wanted” card deck to its suite of computer solitaire card games. The “Iraqi Most Wanted” card games are available for personal computers running Windows, while the balance of Thieves and Kings’ games are available for personal computers as well as handheld computers like the PocketPC and Palm Pilot organizers.

In addition to the Iraqi cards, Thieves and Kings (www.thievesandkings.com) has just released a new version of its solitaire software that allows players to load the new cards and use them in three different solitaire games. New decks are also available on the Thieves and Kings web site that display which of the cards have been captured by the coalition forces. Players can also choose the “original” deck or other new decks as they get posted to the web site.

Unlike other computer solitaires, Thieves and Kings’ cards resize according to the size of the window, allowing full quality display of the cards. Since the numbers are large and the cards change size, the right card is always easy to find. Also, players using large monitors no longer need to squint at small cards. All of the Thieves and Kings solitaires allow you to move the cards without “dragging” with the mouse, which is much easier on the players hand than other solitaires.
